ANOTHER BUILT-IN protection is the provision by an all-wise Providence of a few spare parts. For example, we have two eyes, two ears, two lungs and two kidneys. Although these spare parts cannot be replaced and allthough the loss of one is a handicap, the presence of a healthy member of the pair greatly reduces the disadvantage.

This is called the factor of safety and the chief danger in the loss of an eye or an ear is that the factor of safety is gone.

Many years ago (probably long before you were born) there was a man who lost two fingers. Because he still had two good fingers and his thumb he went on to become a great pitcher in bib baseball. Three-finger Brown they called him and he won many games.

Secretary of State Rusk has made it officially clear there is no connection between Cuba and West Berlin. But the connection is there unofficially.

Soviet satellite officials attending the opening sessions of the United Nations General Assembly talked about it to U.N. delegates, The Kremlin has a deal in mind.

they may have overlooked something? Americans once were famous for deals too. They never earned the reputations for ruthlessness held by the British, Dutch, Germans, French, Spaniards and Belgians. But they earned a reputation for shrewdness, and perhaps they haven't entirely forgoften how to be shrewd.

THE UNITED STATES is interested in West Berlin only because the presence of it and its allies pains the Russians. Why wouldn't this be a fine time to tell the Kremlin that if the Berlin wall isn't torn by a week from Wednesday the United States will start a full blockade of Cuba a week from Thursday, with a view to starving to death every Russian technician now on the island and proving to the world that Russia cannot defend Cuba; that Russia is Congress, however - ten years before the Supreme Court decision in the "school prayer" case - did pass a joint resolution on April 17, 1952, which called on the president "to set aside and proclaim" a suitable day each year "as a national day of prayer, on which the people of the United States may turn to God in prayer and meditation at " churches, in groups and as individuals."

WILL CLASSES in public schools, therefore, be legally considered as among such groups?

The Supreme Court said in its decision June 25 that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of the American people." The court also said that the First Amendment was added to the Constitution "as a guarantee that neither the power nor the prestige of the federal government would be useful to control, support or influence the kinds of prayer the American people can say."

ton an attempt to "influence the kinds of prayer" the American people shall use? Was it a recommendation as to what the content of a prayer should be on a particular day?

The proclamation contained the following exhortations:

"On this day, let us all pray, each following the practices of his own faith. Let us pray for our nation and for other nations of the world. May we especially ask God's blessing upon -

"Our homes, that this integral unit of society may nurture our youth and give to them the needed faith in God, in our nation and in their future;

"Our citizens, that they may increase in the desire to promote mercy and justice, peace and freedom, good will and brotherhood; that they may open new frontiers in helping to alleviate hunger, ignorance and disease;

"Our nation, that each new itage of faith:

"And our world, that this generation may experience the fruits of peace and may know the real meaning of brotherhood under

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.'

COULD ANYTHING be more official than the foregoing document? The Supreme Court in its decision last June barred not only official prayer of any kind but also the use of the government's prestige to encourage the recitation of particular prayers.

The New York State prayer which the Supeme Court barred was referred to in its decision as having been composed by the state because it was written by the state educational board and sent to the local school boards with the recommendation that they set aside a few minutes each morning to recite it.

The full text of this particular prayer consisted of only 22 words. It read as follows:

"Almight God, we acknowledge achievemet may add to our her- our dependence upon thee, and we beg thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

The Supreme Court said that, though this prayer may be depart of students is voluntary." it was nevertheless an official

The court said that "each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves."

How, then, would the Supreme Court construe a president's proclamation containing religious expressons set forth as the subtance of a prayer recommended for use throughout the nation, including the public schools?

THE LANGUAGE of the preamble of the President's proclamation, moreover, will have to be studied now to determine whether it can be regarded as a part of what the court called a program of governmentally supported religious activity." The proclamation reads as follows:

"Whereas faith in Almighty God was a dominant power in the lives of our Founding Fathers

"Whereas they express this faith in prayer, and in this posture members of the Continental Congress mutually pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor; and

"Whereas each succeeding generation has shared that faith;

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about a husband who insists on maintaining what he calls "a wonderful relationship" with his former mother-in-law?

When I married Everett he had custody of his children. So now, under one roof, we have his children, my children and our children. Everett invites his ex-mother-in-law to baby-sit whenever we go out. She loves it and would cancel anything to be with "her angels." I've told him I don't like it, but he ignores me.

When I divorced Nick I severed relations with his parents because I feared their presence would be embarrassing to Evrett. Now I think Everett should do as much for me. He reads your column every day. Please print this letter and your comments, so he can see it. - R. C.

Will there be a '63 model of Electricity?

Over the years, we've spent millions to improve the way we produce and deliver electricity. But we haven't changed our product one particle. Our '63 model will be exactly the same as our '35 model (or any other year)!

Why did we spend the millions? For a very sound reason. Through more efficient methods we have been able to keep the price low. While almost all other items have gone up and up, the price you pay per unit of electricity is lower today than in 1935!* Your increased use (5½ times as much on the average) has helped, too.

Thanks to Ohio's historically favorable business climate, the electric companies were able to raise the millions needed to make these improvements. As a result: In Ohio you now pay less for electricity than people in 31* other states!

Friday night will see all of the eight teams in the Tri-County League engaged in loop frays, however, the Lisbon-Louisville clash is the only one which pits upper division squads and the undefeated Leopards are a definite favorite over the game county-

LOUISVILLE, THE Stark County power house, carries an unblemished record into the game while the visiting Blue Devils are currently 5-1 for the season.

The Leopards have displayed one of the most potent scoring attacks in the state as they have chalked up 187 points in six contests while their defensive units have allowed only three schools to score lone tallies against them.

Lisbon, under the tutelage of Coach Bud Bucher, has shown vast improvement in the last three clashes but still lacks the punch needed to halt the Leopards' steam-roller attack.

LOUISVILLE AND Columbiana are currently tied for the league lead with identical 3-0 marks while the Buchermen are in third place with a 3-1 record.

Columbiana, the only Columbiana County school remaining on the unbeaten list, should have little trouble against the host Sebring Trojans.

Columbiana, led by bulldozing fullback Dale Murphy, are 5-0 for the year and were shaken, if not beaten, by Coach Ike Farrah's pite the lopsided 40-22 final score, the Bears gave the Clippers all

It's Girl's Duty To Keep Lovely

Mrs. Effie Nye, 96, Gets Hair-Do Frequently

Mrs. Effie Nye, 96, thinks it's a girl's duty to keep lovely, and so she comes from her home six miles north of Salem on the Canfield Road to a Salem beauty parlor every two or three weeks to get her hair done.

Shown being "combed out" by operator, Mrs. John McConner Mrs. Nye prefers to wear her white hair in a modern semiupdo. Mrs. McConner of the Star Beauty Parlor on S. Lincoln Ave. says Mrs. Nye's hair is "nice and unusually thick."

Mrs. Nye is the widow of George Alton Nye.

They had seven children, three of whom are living: a son Russell, with whom she makes her home, and two daughters, Mrs Ross Fauschnat, a teacher at Maple Ridge School, Alliance, and Miss Ethel Nye, a nurse in Buffalo, N.Y.

ing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small aid has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a most unusual idea and design in a product for the hard of hearing.

It is especially made for those people who can hear but not understand. This new hearing instrument provides "earlevel" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television and radio at his ear rather than at a transmitter located in the wearer's clothing.

Due to the use of 4 transistors, the user cost is extremely low and the instrument weighs approximately 1/4 ounce. It is about the size of a sewing thimble
